

Winter hiking

New winter hiking trails on the mountain

On Parsenn/Gotschna there will be two new winter hiking trails. The two approx. 3 km long circular walks lead through varied terrain and make it possible to discover the Parsenn area even without skis.

The Totalp Trail leads from the Weissfluhjoch with wonderful views to the Totalp, the Gotschna Trail connects the Gotschnagrät mountain station with the Gruobenalp. On both trails, spacious sun terraces invite you to linger a while. The routes require good footwear and possibly hiking poles.

Snowshoe hiking

New snowshoe routes for special nature experiences

Off the beaten track, you can conquer deep snow-covered forests and untouched winter landscapes on snowshoes. Four new, signposted snowshoe routes enrich the Davos landscape. Whether you are ambitious in terms of sport or prefer to take it easy: there is something for every taste. The routes are at Wolfgang and Unterschneid: from Frauenkirch via Lengmatta to the ARA or from Islen via Wildboden and Junkerboden to Frauenkirch or Glaris. Also a new route on Rinerhorn is planned.

Kirchner Museum Davos

Theatre of Survival

The Kirchner Museum Davos is dedicated to the Swiss artist Martin Disler (1949-1996), who unfortunately died much too early. The exhibition "Theatre of Survival. Martin Disler - The Late Years" focuses on the last ten creative years of the artist of the new expressive painting and places his works of art in an exciting dialogue with paintings and sculptures by Ernst Ludwig Kirchner.

There are many similarities to discover between Disler and Kirchner. Both artists impress with a wide range of different formats and genres: from the intimate sketch to the monumental painting, from the depiction of the human figure to free abstraction.
