Summer the Swiss way.

Well, we did it – visitor numbers have finally surpassed pre-Covid levels, and we are delighted to report that the winter season was a successful one for the Swiss travel industry!

As of this year we have been classified as level III, the top classification in Switzerland's national sustainability programme, which reflects our ongoing commitment to being Swisustainable.

With that in mind, our focus this summer and autumn are on lesser-known destinations and activities and, as always, travel by public transport. Oh, and let's not forget our brand-new Grape Escapes campaign, which highlights Switzerland's best-kept secret: its fantastic wines!

In this booklet, we'll be updating you on all the latest news for this summer, including the Gornergrat Railway's new NostalChic Class, the opening of the Eiger Walk of Fame in the Jungfrau Region, two e-biking tours, culinary experiences in Geneva, Lausanne, Zurich, Valais and Ticino, and much more.

Also in this booklet are all the latest hotel and restaurant openings from across Switzerland, plus our summer group media trips for this year. We have also included a handy map on page 15 and have numbered (in red) throughout the booklet all the relevant destinations across Switzerland so that you can see exactly where everything is happening.

For further updates throughout the summer season, you can also head to the Switzerland Tourism UK & Ireland Media Corner:

We hope that you will come away wanting to do summer the Swiss way, and we look forward to working with you!

Summer news.

Launching in May: Grape Escapes

A Swiss wine remains somewhat of a well-kept secret, with only 2% exported; however, all that is about to change! For the first time, Swiss wine will form the focus for this summer and autumn in Switzerland. Wine lovers can now escape to a vineyard for a few days and experience the best of Swiss wine in unique accommodation ranging from a converted wine barrel or pod amid the vines to a vintage RV! The vineyards featured in the campaign are situated across Switzerland's six wine regions in hotspots such as Valais (Switzerland's number 1 wine region), the iconic UNESCO-listed Lavaux vineyard terraces, Geneva and Ticino. Agriexperiences in Ticino

Ticino's agriesperienze have been developed to promote the region's culinary and cultural heritage and support the development of sustainable activities in the area. Visitors can choose from a range of hands-on experiences, guided tours and tastings at farms, wineries and dairies, learning about farming and wine and cheese making. From harvesting edible flowers on the Piano di Magadino national park to e-biking through the Terreni alla Maggia vineyards in Ascona (2), agriexperiences offer a fun and interactive way of getting to know the real Ticino.

Opening in summer: The Eiger Walk of Fame

Visitors to the Jungfrau Region (9) can now get up close and personal with the famous Eiger North Face and learn about its legendary history on this new themed hiking trail. From the Eigergletscher station, hikers can head down to the first stop to take a selfie with the Eiger North Face in the background, then take in the breath-taking views of Grindelwald. Information panels along the trail convey the colourful history of mountaineers who took on the North Face and daring rescue operations, complete with facts, figures and famous routes. Hikers can then decide whether to follow the circuit (2h30) back up to the Eigergletscher or carry on walking down to Kleine Scheidegg (1h30). jungfrau.ch/en-gb

New this summer: The music of Petite Arvine de Fully

For the first time in Switzerland, music has been composed especially for a Swiss wine, based on the DNA of its grape variety. Fully, a wine-growing hotspot near Martigny (13) has called on musical oenologists to develop the signature music for local white wine, Petite Arvine de Fully. Its colour profile was fed into a computer programme, and visits and tastings took place in Fully's vineyards to analyse the location and how Petite Arvine interacted with the senses. Visitors can now hear the music and experience this unique tasting experience for themselves at several wineries in Fully.

Anniversaries.

Centenary year of the Vigezzina-Centovalli Railway

Industrial developments in Switzerland in the early 20th century led to the construction of a new railway line linking Locarno in Ticino (2) with Domodossola over the border in Italy, crossing the Centovalli and Vigezzo valleys. Inaugurated on 25 November 1923, the Vigezzina-Centovalli Railway's narrow-gauge line still represents a masterpiece of civil engineering, spanning 52km as it winds through deep gorges, past rugged mountains, rivers and waterfalls, over 83 bridges and through 31 tunnels in just under two hours. To celebrate its 100th year, the railway will be organising events and other festivities throughout 2024.

Opening in summer: Glacier 3000 restaurant

After suffering fire damage, the restaurant on Glacier 3000 (7) will reopen this summer under the direction of architect Mario Botta, and will be open year round. With an emphasis on improved customer experience, fire safety and energy efficiency, the new restaurant will provide 400 seats across two floors, a panoramic terrace affording breath-taking views, and a new QR code-based ordering and payment system. Much of the restaurant's energy will be provided by over 600 solar panels, while heat recovery and effective insulation will also improve energy efficiency.

100th anniversary of the Swiss Youth Hostels

The Swiss Youth Hostels (originally the Zurich Youth Hostel Establishment Co-operative) were founded on 28 April 1924. For 100 years, they have been a vital first port of call for budget- and environmentally-conscious travellers. The hostels ensure not only lasting memories of holidays, but also encounters with similarly-minded people, and they are actively engaged in sustainable tourism. In these financially challenging times, there's never been a better time to experience all that Swiss youth hostels have to offer than in their 100th anniversary year!

New carriages on the Pilatus Railway

Pilatus, the world's steepest cogwheel railway, has just rolled out a fleet of eight new energy-saving railcars and one freight car into operation on Mount Pilatus (17), which overlooks Lucerne (11) in central Switzerland. Built by Swiss manufacturer Stadler, the new fleet operates at gradients of 35-48°, and is equipped with energy-efficient drive technology, contributing to more efficient, reliable and sustainable rail operations.

150 years of the Unione Ticinese

The Unione Ticinese provides support and acts as a point of reference for emigrants from the Italian part of Switzerland and their descendants or anyone with a fondness for Ticino. To mark the 150th anniversary of their founding, they have scheduled a range of events and celebrations throughout the year. The programme of events follows Ticino's evolution from yesteryear to the present day, with concerts, walking tours and the inauguration on Piccadilly Circus of a green plaque on the historic site where popular Ticinese restaurant 'Monico' once stood. utlondon.org/150th-jubilee

Food, art, culture and cities.

6-16 June: FOOD ZURICH festival

Europe's third-largest food festival will take place in the summer for the very first time this year and will feature over 100 events in and around Zurich (20). The festival's main themes will be sustainability and the 'Culinary Future', with a primary focus on food that both tastes great and has a low carbon footprint. Visitors to the festival can expect a wide range of regional Swiss products that showcase culinary excellence, regional producers, locally sourced ingredients and the latest culinary innovations, and find out first-hand how conscious consumption is essential for a sustainable diet. foodzurich.com/en

Opening in April: The new Kunsthau Baselland

On 13-14 April, the artistic hub of Basel (5) will welcome its newest cultural offering. Designed by Buchner Bründler Architekten, the new Kunsthau Baselland is a converted champagne warehouse situated in the Dreispitz quarter of the city, a vibrant neighbourhood home to various cultural institutions, the Academy of Art and Design (HGK), a number of artists' studios and manufacturing businesses, and a diverse local community. Rewilding, the inaugural exhibition at the new Kunsthau Baselland, will run until 18 August. kunsthaubaselland.ch/en

TukTuk tours in Geneva

Guided tours are brought to the next level in and around the city of Geneva (6), where passengers can enjoy a traditional Swiss fondue with a glass of wine onboard a TukTuk, while discovering the city on a 90-minute tour of either Geneva's old town, the picturesque nearby town of Carouge or the shores of Lake Léman. Visitors after a longer experience can also opt for a three-hour TukTuk tour of the magnificent vineyards surrounding Geneva, which includes a wine tasting with a local producer.

Opening this summer: Musegg Garden in Lucerne

Once a symbol of power, the Musegg Wall and its nine towers are part of the historic fortifications in Lucerne (11), forming a crown around the old town. New there this summer is the Musegg Garden, an urban oasis where the public can go to relax, and on certain days, try their hand at some gardening. Formerly a school garden, this new free-to-visit landmark was the idea of Lucerne's Environmental Protection Department and will celebrate biodiversity and hopefully inspire visitors to turn their own gardens and balconies into green spaces.

E-biking tours of Zurich

In the lead-up to the UCI Road and Para-cycling Road World Championships in September, Zurich (20) is keen to get visitors to the city on their bikes! As well as discovering Zurich's must-sees, e-bikers are encouraged to venture out to its lesser-known neighbourhoods and relax in the natural spaces around the city, with the help of the Zurich City Guide app. E-bikes are available to hire for both self-led tours and official tours accompanied by a guide. A great way to visit more of the city in a short space of time, e-bike hire costs £23/€26pp for an official guided tour or starts at £5/€6pp for the first 30 minutes (self-led).

Getting around Switzerland.

Swiss Travel System (STS)

Travelling by public transport within Switzerland is not just easy but eco-friendly, with renewable energy-powered trains, boats and buses operating all over the country. Visitors to Switzerland can make the most of all three transport modes on their trip thanks to the all-in-one Swiss Travel Pass, a single ticket that covers travel on public transport nationwide for three, four, six, eight or 15 consecutive days (1st or 2nd class, prices start at £229/€268pp).

MySwitzerland.com/swisstravelpass

Swiss International Air Lines (SWISS)

With a view to using its resources on the ground as sparingly as possible and to reducing its own carbon emissions, SWISS has set itself two ambitious ecological objectives: to halve its carbon emissions from their 2019 level by 2030, and to achieve net-zero carbon emissions by 2050. One highly effective step taken towards achieving these goals is operating more advanced and economical aircraft like the Airbus A32Xneo family and the Airbus A220. Each new generation of SWISS aircraft generates up to 25% less carbon emissions than its predecessor. swiss.com

Swiss Federal Railways (SBB).

90% of the electricity used to run Swiss trains is generated from hydropower, and SBB's mission is for all electricity to be generated from renewable sources by 2025. The Rhaetian Railway already operates on 100% hydropower and ranks third after cycling and walking as the most sustainable way to travel in Switzerland. The Pilatus Railway near Lucerne also recently launched trains with energy-efficient drive technology, contributing to more efficient, reliable and sustainable rail operations.
